The New Reporter

School story · Welcome

Salim was nervous. It was his first day at the office of the WOW! Magazine. He read the sign on the door:

> WOW! = World of Wonder! A magazine by kids for kids.

Inside, four young reporters were busy. Readers send them ideas, comments and photos, and they write funny and interesting topics.

'Hello! I'm Reem,' said a girl with a camera. 'Welcome to the team!'

Who is who?

Reem gave Salim a sheet of team profiles. 'Read this. Then you can describe us,' she said.

Arlo was running around the room with a box of photos. He never feels tired. 'Arlo is energetic,' Salim read.

Sultan was at his computer. He had lots of new ideas for the next page. 'Sultan is creative.' Sultan also isn't tall or short, and he talks a lot. 'So he is medium height and chatty!' Salim laughed.

Julia smiled and gave Salim a cup of water. 'Julia is kind and friendly.'

Then Sultan asked, 'What is the answer to this puzzle for the magazine?' Salim solved it in ten seconds. 'You're clever!' said Sultan.

And what about Salim?

'Now tell us about you,' said Reem. 'Use I think I'm ...'

Salim thought. 'I think I'm quite clever because I'm good at Maths. And I'm creative. I like computers. I'm like Sultan.'

Sultan wrote on the board: 'They are clever.' Arlo wrote: 'They are clevers.' 'No, Arlo!' said Julia. 'Don't add -s to adjectives.'

Everyone laughed. Salim wasn't nervous now. He was part of the WOW! Team.

Every day, Arlo goes to school by scooter. It is his routine. He wears a helmet and he arrives at seven o'clock. Sultan walks to school. He doesn't go scooting.

But today was different. Sultan looked out of the window and said, 'Look! Arlo is doing karate on his scooter!'

'I don't believe it!' said Reem.

'Really?' said Julia.

Sultan ran outside. 'Arlo, what are you doing?'

'I'm practising for the school sports day,' said Arlo. 'I'm wearing my helmet, don't worry. I always wear it.'

'You're so funny!' laughed Sultan.

'Does your sister do karate too?'

Then Reem came with her camera. 'Arlo! At the moment the light is perfect. Are you doing karate now? I want a photo for the magazine.'

'Yes! I 'm doing it now!' But Arlo was tired. 'Actually, we aren't doing karate today. I 'm just sitting down.'

And under it he wrote: 'Arlo goes scooting every day. Today he is doing karate on a scooter. I don't believe it!'

📖 Words from the story

'That sounds good,' said Samar.

'It looks interesting,' said Hamad.

'Do you know what? This is better than cartoons!' said Ali.

Julia wanted to write a mini-book for WOW! Magazine about sports around the world. So she wrote to three e-pals. Here are their answers.

From Tama, New Zealand

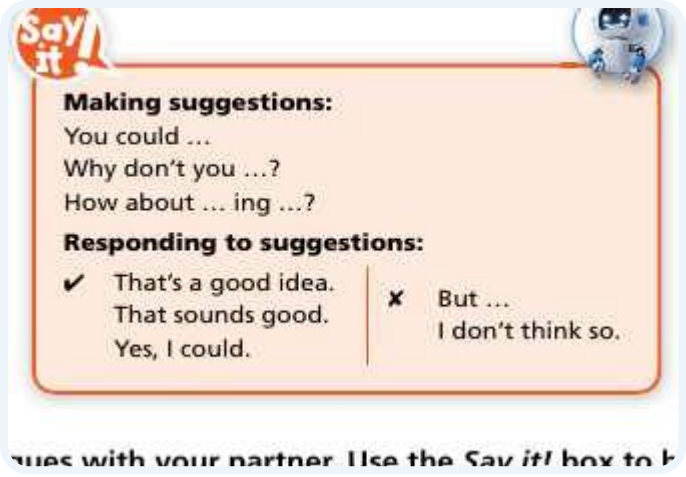

Hi Julia! In New Zealand, rugby is very popular. Rugby can be dangerous, so children play Rippa Rugby. It's a safe kind of rugby, and we play without shoes! It's great fun.

From Maryam, Oman

Hello Julia! In Oman, watersports are very popular. Oman has beautiful beaches. My brother loves snorkelling because he can see colourful fish. My cousin goes windsurfing at Al Sawadi beach. It's great fun and you can be outdoors all day.

From Liam, Canada

Hi! In Canada, we have lots of snow. Cross-country skiing helps you keep fit, and it's a good way of travelling in the snow. Here's a fact: in cross-country skiing you can ski uphill, too!

'Why don't you learn karate?'

Reem had a big job: an interview for WOW! Magazine. An interview is a set of questions and answers. Her guest was Henry Wilson. He was in South America on a long cycling trip called Adventures on two wheels.

Before the call, Reem wrote her questions. Her first question was: 'Why you like cycling?'

Henry: It's the people. They're so kind. It's amazing. I've got so many friends now!

Reem wrote the answers quickly. She used contractions: it is = it's, I have = I've, does not = doesn't, she is = she's.

Later, Julia wanted to find one fact fast. 'Where does Henry sleep?' Reem said, 'Read the questions first. Then you find the information quickly.' Julia found it in five seconds.

Lesson 2-3 · A smarter smartphone and comparative adverbs

The Phone Race

Poem and story | Unit 2: Technology

👥 Julia, her Dad and his new smartphone

Julia's dad bought a new phone. At dinner, Julia read a poem from her book club. Poems have short lines and words that rhyme.

Dad's new phone is thinner and lighter,

The screen is clearer, the colours are brighter.

It does everything faster than before,

It finds the way, it shops at the store!

'This is my phone!' laughed Dad. 'Let's have a race: my old phone and my new phone!'

The race

Julia held the old phone. Dad held the new phone.

'Ready? Go online!'

Julia turned on the old phone. She typed a password. Slowly, slowly...

Dad clicked on an icon. 'I'm online!'

'Now download an app!' Dad's phone did it faster. It downloaded more quickly.

'Now upload a photo!' Dad pressed a button and took a selfie. Then he uploaded it. The new phone worked better. The old one worked worse.

'Now search the internet for the weather in Nizwa.' Dad found it more easily.

'And send a message to Grandma, and watch a video of the beach!'

Dad won every time.

💡 -ly adverbs → more + adverb: more quickly, more carefully, more clearly. Short adverbs → -er: harder, faster. Irregular: well → better, badly → worse.

Grammar: comparative adverbs

Julia's turn

'The new phone is the winner,' said Julia. 'But I can do one thing better than your phone.'

'What?'

'I can check facts more carefully. Your phone said the shop opens at nine. I called them. It opens at ten!'

Dad laughed. 'You're right. You work harder than my phone!'

Then Julia's little brother said, 'Your phone is more faster and gooder!'

'No,' said Julia. 'Say faster, not more faster. And better, not gooder.'

Before bed, Julia wrote a new line for the poem:

A phone works faster, that is true,

But I think more carefully than it can do!

Lesson 2-4 · Technology helps us and asking for help

Helpers Around the World

Report story · Unit 2: Technology

👥 Reem and Julia make a poster for WOW! Magazine

Reem and Julia were making a page for WOW! Magazine: Technology helps us! They read about young students with special needs around the world.

Story 1: Painting with VR

Some children with Down's Syndrome find it difficult to hold a pen. But they can use Virtual Reality (VR). With VR, they paint beautiful pictures in the air!

Story 2: Waking up with light

Children who are deaf can't hear an alarm clock. So they use special alarm clocks with lights and vibrations. The bed shakes and the light flashes: time for school!

Story 3: Big letters

In India, some young people can't see well. E-readers make the letters very large, and they can read words aloud too.

'And here's a fact,' said Julia. 'People who cannot talk can use their eyes to make computers do things for them!'

'Wow!' said Reem.

Asking for help

Reem wanted to make a spider diagram on the computer, but she didn't know how.

'Julia, can you show me how to turn it on?'

'Of course. It's easy!'

Then she asked Sultan, 'Could you help me after lunch, please?'

'Sorry, not now. I have a karate class.'

She asked Arlo, 'Do you have time to help me revise for the Science test?'

'Of course!'

Arlo laughed. 'Reem, can you show me how turn on the printer?'

'You forgot to,' said Reem. 'Can you show me how to turn it on?'

A spider diagram about technology

The spider diagram

They wrote Technology in the middle of a big poster. Around it, they wrote devices: tablet, e-reader, laptop, VR headset. Next to each one, they wrote how it helps us learn:

You can use a tablet to help you to read stories.

E-readers are very good at teaching you new words.

You can use a laptop to help you to revise.

Miss Huda put the poster on the wall. 'Excellent work, girls!'

Lesson 2-5 · Literacy: reviews

Five Stars or Three?

Story with reviews | Unit 2: Technology

👥 Sultan writes his first review

Sultan saw an advert: TopCity: the exciting new game! He wanted to buy it. 'Wait,' said Julia. 'First read the reviews. A review tells people what you think about something.'

They found two reviews online.

GameFan ★★★★★

Amazing game! You travel around a city looking for treasure. You solve problems and challenge yourself. It's like programming a computer! It's easy to start, and the graphics are really good. You score points for every problem. Brilliant!

MrCool001 ★★★

Not bad. It's fun, but it's too expensive. It doesn't work on all my devices.

Reading: reviews of TopCity

Reading quickly

'How many stars does GameFan give?' asked Julia.

Sultan started to read every word.

'You don't always need to read every word,' said Julia. 'Look quickly at the text to find the information.'

'Five stars!' said Sultan. 'And MrCool001's bad point is that it's too expensive.'

Sultan writes a review

Sultan didn't buy TopCity. He downloaded a free drawing app called ColourMe. After one week, Miss Huda asked him to write a review for WOW! Magazine.

First he made notes. 'You don't need to write sentences in notes,' said Julia.

> Notes: drawing app ; good: many tools, send pictures ; bad: slow, adverts

> 💡 A review has: a short introduction, good and bad points, you (You can ..., It helps you ...), adjectives (brilliant, expensive) and adverbs (cheaply, easily).

Then he wrote:

> ColourMe ★★★★

> ColourMe is a free drawing app for children. It has tools for painting, and you can send pictures to friends. It helps you draw easily. The colours are brilliant. But there are bad points: it opens too slowly, and there are too many adverts.

'Why only good points?' asked Arlo, reading GameFan's review again.

'A useful review has bad points too,' said Sultan proudly. 'I balance good and bad. And I use stars to show my opinion!'

📖 Words from the story

review مراجعة أو تقييم	solve a problem يحل مشكلة
challenge yourself يتحدى نفسه	program a computer يبرمج الحاسوب
score points يحرز نقاطًا	expensive غالي الثمن

Lesson 3-5 · Literacy: short stories

The Story Machine

Fantasy Unit 3: Places

👥 Rasha and her brother Ammar

Rasha had homework: write a short story. Her brother Ammar said, 'A short story needs three things: a setting, that's where it happens; characters, that's who is in it; and a plot, that's what happens at the beginning, in the middle and at the end.'

💡 Every story needs a beginning, a middle and an end.

The fantastic bird

Rasha didn't have an idea. She sketched an orange bird in her notebook. Then she went to sleep.

In the night, she heard a noise. The bird from her picture was flying through the window!

'Climb on my back!' it whispered.

Rasha climbed onto its back, and they zoomed into the sky. They flew over the city: the harbour, the stadium, the tall towers. 'Wow!' she yelled.

In the morning, Rasha smiled. She wrote her story about the adventure. The setting: Rasha's bedroom and the sky.

Read the stories on pages 60 and 61 again. Then complete the story plans.

How to write... a short story

Think about these things:

- Where does the story take place?
- Who is in your story?
- What happens at the beginning?
- What happens in the middle?
- What happens at the end?

Then Ammar told his own story.

'Beginning: I was going to a football match with Dad. I fell down some steps and hurt my foot. 'Ouch!' I shouted. 'My foot hurts!'

End: 'Thank you!' I said, with a big smile on my face.'

'The setting is a stadium and a hospital,' said Rasha. 'And the characters are you, Dad and Amjed Rashid!'

Rasha's notes

Rasha found a new word: zoom. She didn't know it. 'Use the pictures and the text to guess,' said Ammar. 'The bird went very fast.' 'So zoom means to go very fast!'

Then she made a list of verbs to use instead of said: shouted, whispered, yelled, asked, smiled.

'Help!' he said. → 'Help!' he yelled.

And she put the words people say inside ' '.

The teacher gave Rasha's story a gold star. Rasha drew the orange bird next to it.

Yes: the phone and the computer.

No: then the next question: Does it carry people?

Yes: the car, the plane and the steam train (transport technology).

No: the oven and the vacuum cleaner (machines in the home). The vacuum cleaner is for cleaning.

'And there is old and new technology,' said Arlo. 'The steam train is old. Virtual Reality is new!'

'A tree diagram helps us see and understand groups quickly,' said Miss Huda. 'Well done!'
